

ROBIN HOOD AND THE SHERIFF OF NOTTINGHAM

(see Malone Society Collections, i. 123)

If such boldness be allowed one might perhaps complete the poem somewhat after this manner :

Robin enters disguised.

Robin. holde þ^a here, syr Sheryffe,
— Robyns hede, by my lyffe ! Shows the severed head.
Sheriff. Now take þ^a golde and fee, syr Gweye, wellcume mote þ^a be !
Robin. golde and fee wylle I none,
but yon outlawe alone. Points to Little John.
Sheriff. take hym lyghtlie to thy wylle, thogh þ^a hys lyffe spille.

Robin goes to Little John, cuts his bonds, and puts a bow in his hand.:

Robin. Now haue this bowe intill thy honde ;
by thy syde I take my stonde !
Sheriff. owt alas, we be fordone,
Robin Hode is vs vpon ! They fly.
Little John. Now do they runne for drede :
syr Sheryffe, þ^a art but dede !

Little John shoots the Sheriff as he runs away.

Friar Tuck. by Xst, this was welle wrought ;
gode Robyn hath his menye boght !

PREFATORY NOTE

IN the article which I contributed to the Jahrbuch der Deutschen Shakespeare-Gesellschaft for the year 1912 I advanced the view that it is possible, through a closer comparison of the premises leased by Farrant with the premises bought by Burbadge, to acquire a new and more precise knowledge of Shakespeare's Blackfriars, and I announced, at the same time, my intention to discuss this point 'in another article to be published later on' (p. 91); for when I wrote this I was persuaded that a review article was all that was needed to prove my assertion. I have, however, now come to the conclusion that it is necessary to publish a fuller selection of documents in extenso, in order to provide a sure basis for all future discussions.

Such then is the aim—and the only aim—of this volume. For it does not purport to give the whole history of the Blackfriars Theatre. It simply offers a selection of such documents which are sufficient to locate Shakespeare's Blackfriars and to show its relation to the earlier theatre conducted by Farrant—a point of sufficient importance in itself to deserve a separate study.

In accordance with the practice of the Malone Society I have endeavoured to reproduce the documents as nearly in type-facsimile as typography will permit. I do not flatter myself that I have succeeded to the utmost of my desire. Most of the documents printed belong to a period when the scribes practically followed no rules, especially as regards abbreviations; and, in many cases, I have been obliged to make a limited number of types do service for an endless variety of written signs. But this could not be helped, and I can, at least, vouch the accuracy of this publication in the matter of spelling and punctuation, for all the documents which form the text have been corrected by the originals. This it has not been possible to do for the documents given in the terminal notes; but all my transcripts have been collated with the originals before the writing of the notes, so that I can answer for their accuracy.

In conclusion, I beg to return my best thanks to Lieut. and Mrs. More Molyneux M^cCowen, the present owners of the Loseley Collection, for kindly renewing the permission which the regretted Mr. More Molyneux granted me, several years ago, to search and use the Loseley MSS. as I thought fit. I feel much gratitude to Mr. R. A. Roberts and Mr. A. E. Stamp, of the Record Office, for the exceptional arrangements made by them, which facilitated my study of the documents when they were sent up to the Record Office for inspection, and also to Mr. Theodore Craib, the Librarian, who carried out these arrangements in the most obliging manner. I am conscious I have trespassed upon his working hours more than once since the year 1906, when I began to work on the Loseley Collection, but the fault lies with him, for his patience has been, all that time, inexhaustible.

I wish also gratefully to thank Mr. E. K. Chambers for the part he has taken in this publication, and for his assistance while the volume was passing through the press. I owe to him many a valuable suggestion and several additions, which the reader will find distinguished from my own notes by the initials E. K. C.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE CONVENTUAL BUILDINGS

I

[Loseley MS., No. 390. This document was drawn (c. 1555-6) in answer to the petition of the inhabitants of Blackfriars, who complained that Sir Thomas Cawerden, the then Master of the Revels, had defaced the parish church of Saint Anne and pulled down the roof (cf. J. Greenstreet's article in Athenaeum, July 17, 1886). It gives a list of most of the persons who were granted lands and houses in the dissolved priory, and on that account it is indispensable in order to limit that part of Sir Thomas Cawerden's property in which Burbadge's theatre was situated.

The original is divided into four columns, and the text is distributed in the following manner:—

[In the documents now printed Lord Cobham's house is constantly referred to as being a limit on the north part of the buildings which became the Blackfriars theatre. It is, therefore, most important to ascertain its situation, which is given by the following documents.

Loseley MS., No. 1396, f. 75^v, describes the mansion house which Lord Cobham purchased of King Henry VIII in 1546, and which, in 1632, was sold to the Society of Apothecaries (cf. No. XVI).]

[Loseley MS., No. 332 (53). The house let out to Sir Henry Neville becoming vacant was first let out to the 'Sylk dyers' (Loseley MS., No. 406); then, in 1570-1, Lord Cobham had a lease for the six upper chambers and for a kitchen lately built by Sir Henry. As this document practically repeats the greater part of Farrant's lease it is useless to print it in extenso; a few extracts will be sufficient.]

[Loseley MS., No. 1396, f. 120^v. Lord Cobham having surrendered his lease, Richard Farrant obtained the house (1576) and, under pretence of exercising the Children of the Chapel, used it as a theatre. (For the history of this playhouse and the documents relating to the same see my articles in the Daily Chronicle of Dec. 22, 1911, and in the *Jahrbuch d. BURBADGE'S THEATRE

X

[Loseley MS., No. 1396, f. 99 and sqg. This document relates to some of the rooms which were bought by James Burbadge and by his sons, and which in 1572-3 were the object of a contestation between Henry Poole, as heir to Sir Thomas Cheyney, and Sir William More. The occasion of the lawsuit was as follows: In 31 Henry VIII (March 16, 1539-40) Sir Thomas Cheyney was granted a tenement in the precinct of Blackfriars (cf. note to p. 3, l. 10). Henry Poole, having married the widow of the eldest son of Sir Thomas Cheyney, under colour of this grant, pretended title to certain houses which had formerly been claimed by the Lord Warden (cf. p. 7), but which it seems had been appropriated by Sir Thomas Cawerden. The story of this lawsuit had best be given in Sir William More's own words: 'The said Henrie Poole p̄tended title to one howse late in the handy of Bywater and a fence scholle late in the handy of one Ioyno^r about the xvth yeare of the Qnes Mat^{ies} Raigne, whereof the said Sr Thomas Cheyney the lo: Cheyney nor the said Pooles wief had ever possession before nor p̄tended tittle vnto it to my knowledge but the same remayned alwaies in the possession of Sr Thomas Cawarden and his assygy and in me and mine assygy.

The occacōn wherevpon he first p̄tended his title was for that Lichfeild had found that he had received vll a yeare vnlawfullie vpon p̄tence that some of the Revell stuffe was laid in the howses in question wherevpon the said Poole comēced his acco^u but afterwarde submitted him self to the arbitram^t of my lo: Mountague and Mr Apsley whoe did awarde that I should make a gen^uall release to him of three howses w^{ch} he held by Coloure of the aforesaid g^unt whereunto I p^otended alsoe tytle because I thought Sr Tho: Cheyney ought to have but that howse w^{ch} my lo: Henrie Semer nowe hath, and that alsoe the said Henrie Poole should make a like release vnto me of the ij^o howses aforesaid w^{ch} beinge done accordingle y^t was awarded that I should make a lease to Henrie Poole & his wief for fiftye yeares if they did live soe longe of the howse in the tenure of Bywater payinge onlie xij^d yearlie w^{ch} I p^ormed & soe the suite ceased' (Loseley MS., No. 440). The subjoined documents are a copy made by More of the award and the interrogatories relating to the Poole-More lawsuit.]

[Record Office, Close Roll, No. 2952 (8 Charles, Pt. 41). In 1603 Henry Brooke, Lord Cobham, being convicted of treason, his lands returned to the Crown. The mansion house in Blackfriars was afterwards (May 13, 1604) granted to Charles, Earl of Nottingham, the Earl of Suffolk, Sir John Levison, and Sir John Trevor for the use of the Countess of Kildare, Lord Cobham's wife (Patent Roll, No. 1644, 2 James). The property had henceforth a somewhat complicated history. In 1609 (May 29) the Earl of Nottingham, &c., conveyed it to Sir W. Howard and Lord Howard of Effingham; in the same year (June 15) Sir W. Howard and Lord Howard of Effingham gave it in trust to Edward Lord Zouche, Sir Thomas Vavasour, Sir Oliver St. John, and Sir Francis Englefield, to be at the disposal of the Lady Howard (Minute Book of the Society of Apothecaries, quoted in C. R. B. Barrett, Hist. of the Society of Apothecaries, p. 44). From William Lord Howard, the Lady Anne, his wife, the Lord Zouche, Sir F. Englefield, and Sir O. St. John, Cuthbert and Richard Burbadge, in 1612, bought the piece of ground mentioned below. The document now printed is not the original indenture, but a recital of it in a deed of feoffment of the property to Richard Edwardes, Edward Cooke, Thomas Smith, and Yobe Weale (Nov. 26, 1632), who in the same year handed it on to the Wardens and Livery of the Company of Apothecaries (cf. Barrett, op. cit., p. 47).]

One Indenture of bargaine and sale or deed of feoffament bearing date the nyneteenth day of December, Which was in the Tenth yere of the raigne of our late soveraigne lord king Iames of England &c. made by the said William lord howard and the said Anne ladie howard his wife and by the right honorable Sir Oliver St Iohn knight lord viscount Grandison Edward Lord zouch and Sir ffrancis Englefyld of Wotton Bassett in the County of Wilt^{sh} Baronett vnto Cuthbert Burbage and Richard Burbage of the parish of S^t Leonard in Shordich in the County of Midd^{le} gent^{lemen} and their heires of one little yard or peece of void ground with a brickwall therevnto belonging being then part of the before mencōned p'misses.

Figures in bolder type refer to the page, those in ordinary type refer to the line.

P. 2, 5-9. The bill of complaint, the interrogatories administered to the witnesses, and the depositions and evidences are Nos. 417, 422, 427, 428 of the Loseley MSS. There was also an earlier bill of complaint (undated) by one Harrys, the answers to which have been preserved and are now catalogued No. 432. Parcel No. 425 contains also several documents relating to the same disputes and giving interesting details about St. Anne's Chapel, the conventual church, and the churchyard. They do not, however, supply more information than may be derived from the documents here printed and that published by Mr. Greenstreet in the Athenaeum (1886), ii. 91.

P. 3, 1-2. The bishop of Ely . . . Mr blackwell. A draft of the same document (Loseley MS. 390) has, in Sir William More's handwriting: 'S^r ffrancys bryan and then S^r Antony Agger then after'. In 1554 Sir Thomas Cawerden conveyed to 'Thirlbye byshope of Elye' property which is not specified (Loseley MS. 1396, f. 87^v), probably the upper part of the choir, part of the dormitory, and the vestry (cf. Sir Th. Cawerden's and Sir Francis Bryan's grants). There exists also a letter from William Blackwell (June 21, 1551) asking for a grant of the 'lytle vestrye ground' in favour of Richard Goodrick, the then bishop of Ely (Letters to 1580). The rest of Blackwell's property was constituted by that part of the monastery which Edward VI granted to Sir Francis Bryan in 1548 (Dec. 12). The letters patent enumerate 'totam illam Aulam nram . . . parcell domus Capitularis ibidem ac adiungen^{cl} Claustro ibidem ex parte orientali / Ac totum illum scitum . . . nup nuncupa^t le Priors lodgyng ibidem modo in tenura siue occupacioe dñi francisci Necnon totam illam Cameram nram sub^tus le Dorter . . . adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad dñm Claustum ex orientali parte p^dic^t Ac totam aliam Cam^{am} nram ibidem & p^tic^{em} p Cellario voca^t a Buttrey adiacen^{cl} eidem Claustro. / Ac totam illam domū nram ibidem voca^t a storehouse sub^tus le Dorter p^dic^t ibidem adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad Cellariū voca^t le buttrey ibm ex boriali parte / Ac totam illam domū nram ibm p focali adiacen^{cl} eidem domui voca^t the Storehouse Necnon totam illam Coquinam nram ibidem cum quodam curtilagio adiacen^{cl} vsq3 le Storehouse ibidem ex orientali parte / Ac eciam totam illam domū nram ibidem voca^t a larderhouse adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad Coquinam ibidem ex boriali parte Ac totum illud Cellarium nrm ibidem adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad dictū domū voca^t the larderhouse & Coquinam ibidem ex orientali parte Ac totam illam paruam Cam^{am} nram ibidem adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad eccliam de le Blackefriers p^dic^t ex australi parte ibidem / Ac totam illam Capellam nram ibidem adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad eccliam dic^t nup domus f^rm p^dicatorz ibidem ex parte australi / Ac totum illud Cenaculum nrm ibidem voca^t a Parler sub^tus domū & edificii voca^t le gallerey ibm adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad dñm Capellam ex australi parte p^dic^t / Ac totam illam magnam Cam^{am} nram voca^t a greate dynyng Chamber sup^a Cellariū ibidem / Accciam totam illam Cameram nram ibidem voca^t a bedde Chambre cum parua Cam^a sup^a eandem & adiacen^{cl} vsq3 ad Off. Patent Roll*, 2 Edw. VI, pt. 7. A copy in Loseley MS. 1396, f. 63^v-64^v; also No. 392). It is to be remembered that the house bought by Shakespeare was erected over the great gate leading to William Blackwell's mansion-house.

10. The lorde warden, i.e. Sir Thomas Cheyney, who in 1539-40 (March 16) was granted 'omīa & singula illa mesuagia tēfita domos edificia gardina Curtilagia & tās nā cum ptineū modo in tenura & occupacōe dēi Thome Cheyne et quondam in tenura & occupacōe Iaspi ffyllo & nup in tenura & occupacōe Thome ffereby & Wiū lylgrave' (Patent Rolls, 31 Hen. VIII, pt. 6; a copy in Loseley MS. 1396, f. 65^v). The vagueness of the terms of this patent was the cause of a litigation between Henry Poole, Sir Thomas Cheyney's heir, and William More, the particulars of which are to be found at pp. 35 sqq. of this volume.

12. Sr Mr Ierninggam. (Sic in MS.) The scribe wrote first 'Sr Edmundē', then crossed out 'Edmundē' and wrote 'Mr', forgetting to delete 'Sr'. The draft of the same document has 'Kyngston then aft^r Mr Ierninggam'. Sir Henry Jerningham was the son of Lady Kingston. In 1536 (Sept. 20) John Hilsey, Prior of the Convent, let out to Sir William Kingston, Lady Mary Kingston, and Henry Jerningham 'all the mesuage tēfity gardyn which of late was in the handes of Dame Elizabeth Dentonys with a waye to the water syde bytwene the gardyne of my ladye Paycokes of the weste parte and the garden of Richarde Trice of the easte parte And also two chambers and a seller vnder nethe the libarye which sūme tyme was the vnder libarye adioyned to the hill garden' (Aug. Off. Book, 216, f. 52). In 1540 (May 6) Henry VIII let to Sir Wm. Kingston 'totum nup Clausrum voca? le Inū Cloyster modo gardinū existens Ac omīa domos & edificia subts do[r]mitoriū Ac totam Aulam pmptua? & Cella? ex pte boriali dic? 191, f. 57). In 1543 (July 10) Lady Kingston, widow, and her son surrendered the 1536 lease and had a new one made of the same premises for twenty-one years (Aug. Off. Miscell. Book, 216, f. 52). Lastly, in 1545 (Sept. 5), Lady Kingston was granted, first, the reversion and rent reserved on the 1543 lease (Lady Dentonys's messuage); secondly, 'totum illud Claustrum trā solum & Gardinū nrm vocat le Inner Cloysteryarde & hereditamentum nrm vulgariū vocat le Inner Cloyster cum ptiū nup in tenura dicti Willelmi Kyngeston militis & modo in tenura dñe dñe Marie Kyngeston . . . totam illam domū nram ac omnia domos . . . vocat le lybrarye scituat et existeñ ex parte orientali dñi Claustrī tñe soli et hereditamenti vocat le Inner Cloyster . . . 18-19. edeficy which he holdeth, &c. These were the wash-house, the mill-house, the plumbers' room, a stable, and other smaller houses adjoining (Loseley MS. 424). They were in 1562 (the date is given by the draft of a letter from More to Jerningham, Letters to 1580) the object of a law-suit between Sir Henry Jerningham and William More. The papers relating to this controversy supply very interesting information concerning the buildings which were south of Burbadge's theatre; but it is impossible to give them here, for want of space. They are to be found in Bundle 424 of the Loseley MSS. The following extract, however, bears directly upon the subject of this publication. A document endorsed 'Mr Jerninghū for y^e howses in controversy' has: 'As myche of ff[]y[]his howse as standythe oū the frattere cont xxxiiijth foote in lengthe and xxvj in bredthe' (Loseley MS. 424). The name might be 'frythis', but the third and fifth letters are faded away. Upon the dispute between Jerningham and More was grafted another contestation between More and one Mr Kempe, the latter as 'buyere of tytles'. It appears that 'by cullor of this graunt of the fermerye and of the buldyng &c. aboue and benethe' Kempe claimed 'a great Rome cauled the playment Chamb'.

'ffor aunswere whereunto' More said:

'ffyrst the fermerye had a rome aboue the same w^{ch} was a lodgyng for those that were syck and also one othere Rome benethe the fermerye all w^{ch} Mr Kemp hath.

Also the playment chamb dyd neū pteyne to the fermerye and ys iij tymes as byg as the said fermerye.

Also there neū in any waye or passage to go out of the fermerye to the sayd chamb.

Also the sayd chamb was not rentyd at the time of the graunt nor Long after to any pson but kept in the kyngs handys to the vse of the Reuells.

Also yt was neū in the tenure of Sr wyllm Kyngston

Also the chamb^r ys couy^d all w^t led beyng more worthe then all the monye he payd for the purchas /

Also S^r Thomas Carden hauyng the same graunted vnto hym and his heyres by kyng Edward in the iiijth yere of his Raygn dyd quyetye enioye the same duryng his Lyf as I haue done eⁿ syns vntyll this p^{ri}t So that almost theyse fortyn yers and syns the la. Kyngstons graunt ther was ne^w any tytle made to the same / Yf S^r henry Iernyngh^m had thoug^{ht} he had had anye interest in hyt he wold in quens Maryes time haue sowg^{ht} the same beyng then vyce chamb^{le}yne and of the prevye conceyle and S^r Tho Cawarden in dysgrace and comyt^ted to the fleat and afterwerd^s comyt^ted to his howse' (Loseley MS. 424).

Another document (426 (2)) endorsed: 'Answers to M^r Kemps demaund^s', and which is a duplicate of the above, gives the following variant: 'the plyament chamb^r whereof p^{te} ys oⁿ the rome aboute the fermerye dyd ne^w p^{te}yne to the fermerye beyng also iij tymes &c.'

This room, called 'the parliament chamber', is evidently the old 'frater', for this is the only room leased to S^r Thomas Cawarden in the neighbourhood of the fermery, and large enough to be three times as big as the said fermery (cf. page 6 and note). We know also that at one time Sir Thomas Cawarden was using the 'frater' for the Revels (cf. Feuillerat, The Revels at Court in the Time of King Edward VI and Queen Mary, note to p. 18, Doc. III).

22. harres, &c. In 1544 Robert Harris was granted a messuage in the tenure of Agnes and Henry Foxe, alias Fowlkes (Rec. Off. Patent Roll, 36 Henry VIII, pt. 9). In the same year Paul Gresham and Francis Boldero were granted certain houses and gardens lying east of the cloister (Aug. Off. Miscell. Book, 191, f. 62; Patent Roll, 36 Hen. VIII, pt. 10. A copy in Loseley MS. 1396, f. 77^v, also in No. 393).

31. S^r philipp hobby. The situation of Sir Philip Hobby's house is given by an indenture, made the 26th of April, 1561, between William More and Richard Onslow, Esq., and Katharine his wife, witnessing that More has let out 'all y^e his litle garden plott or pcell of ground late in y^e occupac^on of s^r Phillipp Hobbie knight deceased scitua^t . . . betwene y^e howse or teⁿit and garden late of the said s^r philipp hobbye on the est part and y^e garden of ffrauncis Picher otherwise called ffraunces the post on the west parte and two litle gardens whereof thone is now in y^e occupac^on of y^e said ffraunces picher And thother is now in y^e tenure or occupac^on of Simond palme^r on the North pte and y^e garden now of y^e said Richard and Katharine and late of Dame Lucy Harper deceased on the South parte w^{ch} said Litle garden plott or pcell of grownde before demised conteyneth from Est to west one and twentie yarges and A half yarde and from North to South nintene yarges and three quart^{rs} of A yard eⁿy of y^e said yarges conteynige three fote of assise' (Loseley MS. 1396, f. 38^r, or 348). Part of the premises occupied by Richard Onslowe and Katharine are also described in an Inquisition held in 1571 (Sidney J. Madge, Abstracts of Inquisitiones Post Mortem, 1561-1577 (Index Library), p. 139) as 'extending to the messuage and garden late of Lucy Harper, deceased, and then of the said Richard Onslowe and Katherine on the north, the tenement late of Thomas Cawarden, Knt deceased and then of William More, Esq. on the south, the house of the said Francis [Pycher] then or late in the tenure of Garret Nyce on the west, and to the east to that part of the said messuage of the said Richard Onslowe abutting on the "Gallerie" of William Lord Cobham.'

The Francis Picher mentioned in the preceding documents had been granted, by letters patent dated Jan. 2, 1543-4, 'illud messuagiū & tenementū nrm ac vnū gardinū nrm eidem adiacenū . . . in tenura . . . Iohis Iames . . . / illud messuagiū et tenementū . . . in tenura Iohis hareys / Necnon vnam Turrim scituā et adiacenū gardino ibm ppe pontem Brydewell p Rivū Thames; ibm / Ac omia illa quatuor gardina nra . . . in sepalibus tenuris siue occupacionibus Iohannis Growte, Beatricis Reynolds vidue, ac Willi Taylor et Iohis Saxeye . . .' (Loseley MS. 1396, f. 68v).

To return to Sir Philip Hoby, in a rental for the year 1557 he is given as paying x^s quarterly 'for ij gartheyns next his howse' (Loseley MS. 1390. Cf. 11).

35. Mr. Tate. The grant was made in 1542-3 (March 5) (Pat. Roll, 34 Hen. VIII, pt. 7, or Loseley MS. 1396, f. 67r). His tenements lay towards the water side.

P. 4, 1. Mr. parris. The letters patent are dated July 3, 1540. A copy is in Loseley MS. 1396, f. 64v. (Cf. Brewer, Letters and Papers . . . Henry VIII, xv, p. 467.) In 1540 (July 5) Parris sold part of this property to Sir Christopher More (Loseley MS. 1396, f. 124v). This deed of feoffment shows that Sir Christopher More's house was situated between the way from Ludgate to the Thames on the east, and the 'towndyche' on the west.

13. peter hosyer. He was also called Peter Gobert (Loseley MS. 446) and Flint (Loseley MS. 422). His lands in Blackfriars are enumerated in his Inquisition taken in 1568 (Dec. 8). Cf. Sidney J. Madge, Inquisitiones Post Mortem, 1561-1577, p. 115. Another document (Loseley MS. 434) endorsed, 'Plate for the ground in the blacke ffryars', which seems to refer to the appointment of ground mentioned at 5, 23, helps also to locate Hosier's house, and more generally the houses on the north side of the cemetery.

15. Nycolas Crotcher. His letters patent are dated June 26, 1544 (Pat. Roll, 36 Hen. VIII, pt. 18).

30. John Barnard. He was the Clerk Controller of the Revels. In his Inquisition held in 1560 (cf. G. S. Fry, Inquisitiones Post Mortem, 1485-1561, p. 192) the house of John Barnard is said to have been at that time in the tenure of William Tanner. Now, from a memorandum made in 1562 (Loseley MS. 406) we learn that till 1562 'the Tower' 'was in the tenure of M^r Tanrū'. This identifies Barnard's house with the 'Square Tower', called in other documents 'the Church Porch'.

The Square Tower is described in an Indenture made the 20th day of September 1592 'betwene Sr Wm More of Loseley . . . & George More . . .

and Gedion de Lawne . . . apothecarie', witnessing that Sir William More and George More have 'to ferme lett . . . all those romes . . . called or knowne by the name of the square Tower sometyne called the Church portche . . . that ys to say all that ther great shopp now in thoccupacōn of the said Gedion & alsoe all those their three paire of stayres one above an other leadinge out of the entrie there adioyninge to the said great shopp upp into the stone chambers & into the garrett over the tymber howse wth free & quyett ingresse egresse & regresse in upon & thorow the said entrie to & from the said great shopp & stayres aboue demysed. . . . And . . . all those ther twoe lofty or chambers comonlie called the Stone chambers directlie over the said Shopp & entrie. And alsoe all that their Rome directlie over the said Stone chambs now couēd wth leade together wth all that their garrett called the garrett over the said tymber howse. And alsoe all that ther one other litle garrett adioyninge westwardes to the said Garrett last aboue mencōned being pcell of the said tymber howse & windowes & lightys to the p'misses aboue demysed belonging. And alsoe free accesse . . . to vse the privie or wydrafte now beinge wth in the said tymber howse. . . . And free passage & course for the rayne water fallinge from the howses or buildinges aboue by theis p'sent demysed into the yarde there now in thoccupacōn of Richard ffeild' (Loseley MS. 332 (356)).

Another indenture, made the 31st of October, 1593, gives supplementary information, witnessing that Sir Wm. More and George More have sold to Delawne 'all that Mesuage or Tefit called the Square Tower sometyne called the Church portch & the litle gaterome therevnto adioyninge nowe in the seūall tenures or occupacōns of Gedion De Lawne & Richard ffeilde . . . sometyne in the tenure or occupacōn of Thomas Votrolier [More let this tenement to Votrollier in 1573 (Nov. 27), Loseley MS. 348] . . . all that Shopp comonlye called the Round house or Corner shopp adioyninge to the saide Mesuage above mencōned . . . now in the occupation of Pawle Buck. . . . And also all those two Mesuags or Tefites nowe in the seūall tenures or occupacōns of Peter Dorangia Xpofor Hilton Richard Bouffault & Mathewe Diar . . . & sometyne in the seūall tenures or occupacōns of the saide Dorangia & one Wiſſm Tanñ. . . . And also all that garden yard or backside lyinge & adioyninge to the two Mesuages . . . last mencōned . . . nowe in the tenure of the saide Peter Dorangia . . . conteyninge in length from East to west about Nyne yardes & a halfe & in bredeth from North to South at the Estend about fourtene yardys & at the West end about tenn yardes and a halfe . . . sett lyinge . . . betwene the Mesuage of theires of Richard Onslowe Esquire on the south parte & the saide Shoppe called the Rounde house or Corner shopp on the North pte & the highe waye leadinge from the Blackfryers stayers & from Bridewell stayers towards Ludgate on the west parte And also all those chambers Romes comodyties & hereditam^{tes} nowe or late in thoccupacōn of the saide Peter Dorangia . . . w^{ch} are directlie oū the saide Shoppe called the Round house or Corner shopp & w^{ch} were sometyne in the tenure or occupacōn of the saide Wiſſm Tanner. . . .' (Loseley MS. 348). Other documents relating to the Delawne property—too long to be included here—are to be found in Close Rolls, No. 2087, 2108, 2223, 2305, 2356, 2376, 2416, 2953.

32. Thoms Phillipps. He was Clerk of the Revels. For his house see Index.

P. 5, 23. Appoynted grounde for the church. Cf. note to 4, 13.

P. 6. Document II. The lease grounded upon this survey is Loseley MS. 332 (34). A copy is in 1396, f. 62^v. It is dated April 4, 1548, and is in Latin. It agrees on the whole with this survey, but differs on the following points: (1) it gives the length of the buttry as 96 feet, and the breadth as 36 feet; (2) it omits the houses claimed by the Lord Warden.

24. a decayed galerye, &c. This part of the property is described in a Survey taken by Thomas Blagrave and [Thomas] Bocher in 1552 (Oct. 12):

A rough draft of this survey (Loseley MS. 429) has been printed by Sir Walter Besant, Medieval London, vol. ii (Ecclesiastical), p. 407.

29. highe waye and stayre. In the MS. the word 'highe' seems to have been struck out, and the words 'waye and' are underscored. They probably were meant to be left out, for another copy of this survey (Loseley MS. 396) — the one printed by Sir Walter Besant, Med. London, ii (Eccles.), p. 410 — has: 'lane that goethe to the comune stayre at the temmes side'.

P. 7, 4. Southe side. After these words No. 396 has 'w^{ch} galery runethe alonge by the northe of the seide grounde from the este ende to the weste ende as it is above bounded'.

10. Mr Portynarys parler. From a document catalogued No. 438 (see also No. 436) it appears that Sir John Portinary's house belonged to Sir Thomas Cheyney, for More, in his lawsuit with Poole, argued that there was a confusion between the houses claimed and the houses in which Sir Thomas Cheyney and Sir John Portinary dwelt.

15-16. ouer the same buttery. The phrase 'A hall place at the vpper ende of the stayre and an entere there to the frater ouer the same buttery' means, of course, that the hall place and the entry to the frater were both over the buttery, and not that the frater was over the buttery. Still more impossible is it to suppose that there were two 'fraters', for the grant to Cawerden and the survey upon which the grant was grounded show, beyond doubt, that there was but one room so called.

P. 8. Document III. There exists a duplicate of this survey, catalogued No. 399, but imperfect (it notably omits the last paragraph). [Printed by Kempe in Gentleman's Magazine (1843), ii. 132.—E. K. C.]

P. 9, 4. Chauncell and Chappell. This chapel was on the north side (cf. 9, 12). A description of that part of the monastery is to be found in an indenture (dated April 16, 1553), witnessing that Sir Thomas Cawerden has let to Nynyan Sawnders, citizen and vintner of London, 'all y^e his pcell of grounde w^hin the late blackffriers . . . wherevpon is or was latelie scitua^t and included the late Chauncell apart of the lat Belfrey at the north end that ys to saie to the breddeth of y^e Southend of y^e said Chauncell the Cappell and a vestrey at the End there belonging to y^e same Chappell . . . y^e late Chappell sometye Annexed to the same and a pece of y^e church yard w^{ch} said pcell of ground abuteth east north East vppon A garden somtyme in y^e tefire of S^r ffrancis Brion Knight . . . that ys to saie the east ende of y^e said vestrye takinge xxijth ffoote and y^e end of y^e said Chauncell xliijth ffoote in the whole at that end from north to south lxxv ffoote Abuttinge Sowth vppon certen howses and ground somtyme y^e said S^r ffrancis Brians and y^e same s³ Thomas Cawardens not letten to y^e same Nynyan in lenth lxxxiiij ffoote And vppon A Staier goinge vpp not letten into y^e late East Dort of y^e said late black ffriers and A waie not letten Leadinge Betwene the South end

Part of this ground and part of the churchyard were afterwards let respectively to Henry Fylian for a carpenter's yard and to John and George Warren for tennis courts. (Cf. Athenaeum, July 17, 1886, p. 92, and Loseley MS. 1396, ff. 44, 46.)

(Loseley MS. 1396, f. 20^v. Another indenture dated June 30, 1570, is at f. 26^r, and repeats with a few differences the terms of the preceding indenture.)

Interesting information is also supplied by an earlier indenture (dated January 9, 1554-5) between Sir Thomas Cawerden and Henrie Filian of Stretham Carpenter, witnessing that Sir Thomas Cawerden has let out 'all that Mesuage or Tenement late beinge in the Tenure & holdinge of Iohn Cricktofte syvyngma at the will of the same Sr Tho^{ms} . . .

(Loseley MS. 1396, f. 44).

18. wall adioynynge, &c. This may be an error, for between the Anchoress' house and the high way there were about 300 feet. And the fact is that in 1570 'concealed lands' were discovered in that part of the monastery and granted to Nicaesius Yetsweirte, and Bartholomew Brokesby. The letters patent (Jan. 26, 12 Eliz.) enumerate a parcel of land, called the Triangle (24 feet) adjoining the churchyard gate; another parcel of land adjoining the triangle, being 200 feet long from the Triangle towards the east, and 16 feet broad from south to north; another parcel of land 'nup vsita^t pro le Leystall contineⁿ p estima^o in fine orieⁿ ei^usdem a quodam portu ibidem quondam vo^o The Turnegate versus occideⁿ Centū pedes assise ac in Latitudine in d^{co} fine orieⁿ sexdecim pedes assise et in occideⁿ fine Centū pedes assise'; and also another piece of land on the west of the Triangle, and adjoining the north end of Ann Partridge's tenement (30 feet long and 20 feet broad) (Loseley MS. 1396, f. 92^v).

26. John Barnett. This part of Barnard's house must have been the same as the dwelling later on in the tenure of widow Freemount (cf. note to 13, 1), and which was sold to Lord Cobham in 1554 (cf. 18, 23-31).

27-8. The Chappitor howse beinge on the west ende. This is an error for 'east end', which was corrected afterwards in the Inquisition (cf. G. S. Fry, Inquisitiones Post Mortem (Index Library), i. 193). The grant to Sir Francis Bryan correctly places it on the east side of the cloister.

P. 10, 23. Staiers cominge out of the Church. Cf. note to 9, 4. Exterior stairs leading to a dormitory are still to be seen in what remains of the Friar-Preachers of Gloucester (cf. Palmer, The Friar-Preachers of Gloucester, Archaeol. Journal, xxxix. 296).

P. 12, 21. The grant, grounded upon this survey, is dated March 12, 1549-50 (Rec. Off. Patent Roll, 4 Edw. VI, pt. 6. A copy in Loseley MS. 400, and another in 1396, ff. 51 sqq.). The letters patent enumerate the houses and lands described in the survey. The deed of feofment (1560) to Birch and others (Loseley MSS. 348, 423, 1396, f. 56^v. Cf. 68, 9) reproduces the terms of the grant, only where the latter says 'vbi les Revelles dñi Regis modo iacent & reponunt', there has been substituted 'where the Revels of o^r so^uaigne Lorde the King then did lie'.

P. 13, 1. In the Inquisition taken at the Guildhall in 1559 (Jan. 20), the house of Lord Cobham is thus described: 'vna mag[] capit^u mansioni siue mesuag^u p'dict^u ac de & in diu^us Cameris iaceñ sub magna Camera dñe capit^ulis Mansionis quondm vocat^u Le porters Lodge p'ora^u p'dcⁱ Ac de & in ombz a^t Cameris coquin[] Sellarijs solarijs galler[] & easiamentys . . . dñe capit^uli mansioni siue mesuag^u spec^u . . . in possessiõe & occupacõe dñi dñi Cobhm temp^e mort^u sue . . . Post Mortem*, Chancery Series II, vol. 121, No. 118. Cf. G. S. Fry, op. cit., 184). See also Land Revenue Enrolments (Court of Augmentations), vol. 32, f. 151; Pat. Roll, 37 H. 8, pt. 7.

The survey taken by Thomas Blagrove in 1552, part of which has been already quoted in the note to 6, 23, supplies additional information as regards the situation of Lord Cobham's house.

His loft is given as 'saylinge ouⁿ the entry of the tenemente of the seide lane'. No. 429 has also the following note to Jane freemownt's tenement: 'No^s she haith payed to Bowcher a q^{rs} rente dewe at Mydsoⁿ 1552. and she muste have a chimney made by couefinte. /'

P. 14. Document V. Other copies of this document, made at various earlier dates, are to be found in Parcels 421 and 446. In 1547 (Oct. 28) Somerset, being 'requyred by or very good Lorde the lorde Cobham to obteyne of yow the hall of his lodging at the blacke firears', wrote to Sir Thomas Cawerden to ask him to permit Lord Cobham to have 'the same hall during his abode there at this instant parlemēt' (Letters to 1580). An undated document in Parcel 424 has a note to the following effect:

20. pui gardini. One of the earlier documents (Parcel 421) says 'pui Gra³'; another has 'paris graduⁿ'.

P. 15. Document VI. Another copy of this deed, signed by Lord Cobham, is in Parcel No. 347.

P. 16, 9-19. adiomynges, &c. Compare the limits and measurements of this hall with (1) the total length of the buttery and hall place over the buttery (6, 28); (2) the measures of the two rooms at the north end of the tenement demised to Lord Cobham and afterwards to Farrant (27, 18-22; 29, 17-21). The difference of three feet (two feet, if we take the measures given by the Latin lease) is explained by the fact that in one case the thickness of the walls must have been taken into account.

P. 19, 19. Office of the Revels. The place of the Storehouse of the Revels must have been shifted several times. In 1548-50 we are told (Doc. II and III) that the Revels lay north of the 'frater', and probably in the 'frater' also (see note to 3, 18). But in 1553 (at the latest) Sir Thomas Cawerden let out the eastern part of the 'frater' and part of the hall over the buttery to Sir John Cheeke (Loseley MS. 1388). The western part of the 'frater', however, was still vacant, and there the Revels may have remained till 1554 when this part of the building was let out to Frith (Loseley MS. 401; the lease is dated 1555). But at about the same time (c. Sept. 1554) Sir John Cheeke obtained the royal license to travel abroad, and though he paid his rent till 1557 (Loseley MS. 1390), he must have vacated the rooms, foreseeing that he would not return to England for some years. This is how the Revels, as is said in this document, could be removed to Sir John Cheeke's lodging. According to the books of the Revels Office, from 1555 the Master received rent for five rooms (see Feuillerat, Revels at Court, Edward VI and Mary). There were four rooms in Cheeke's lodging, the fifth room was probably the great vault mentioned in note to 20, 9-10, the same which, later on, was to be used by Sir Jerome Bowes for his glass-house.

P. 20, 5. eight yerdys, &c. The difference between this breadth (about 27 feet) and the thirty-six feet of the buttery underneath can, perhaps, be accounted for by the breadth of the gallery (10 feet) which ran at the top of the building. Cf. 24, 4.

9-10. with More. His house was formerly Sir Thomas Cawerden's own mansion-house. (Cf. note to 20, 11, Indenture Frith-Austen.) A description of Cawerden's house—which will be found to agree with that given in the deed of feofment to George Smith, &c., and in other documents printed in the Notes (see Index)—is supplied by the draft of an indenture dated February 12, 1559-60 (which, probably, remained unexecuted), witnessing that Lady Elizabeth Cawerden and William More have demised to one Anthony [surname illegible, the paper being corroded; but the first letter was certainly a B, the letters 'own' are still visible in the endorsement, and in a list of legacies given by Sir Thomas Cawerden is to be found 'Mr Anthony Brown one of the Iustices of the common playes' (Loseley MSS., vol. v Cawerden, &c.)], 'one of the Quenes Ma^ts iustices of her cōen benche' 'such ptes pcellg & porcōns of the chefe mansion house & of other houses romes places sellerys vawtes orchardys gardens condytes waters wayes entres & easementys w^{ch} late wer of the seid Sr thomas Cawerden wⁱⁿ the cyrcuyte compasse & p^rcynte of the place coēnly called the blacke ffryers next ludgate as beⁿ ptycularly hereafter exp^rssed & declared that is to saye, the grete halle & the plor in the chefe mansion house of the seid Sr thōms cawarden wⁱⁿ the seid p^rcynte, And also the kytchyn larders pastre houses & rome in the church lyeng togeyther toward the North from the seid halle bytween the seid halle & the church ther newly made & the too lytell chambers o^un ageynst the seid kytchyn towardys the west, an entre lyeng bytween the seid kytchyn & chamberg & the too vawtes & romes vnder the seid too lytell chamberg togyther w^t a grete vawte or rome next the ground adioynnyng to the same lytell vawtes or romes, and also the hall plo^r & kytchyn & all the chamberg lodgyngs romes placg & other houses now coēnly called or knowen by the name or names of

For other mentions of Sir Thomas Cawerden's or Sir Wm. More's house see Index.

11. Rychard ffryth. From this passage it is pretty evident that Frith must have had that part of the 'frater' which lay to the west of Cheeke's lodging. (Cf. 24, 34 sqq.) This is corroborated by some of the following documents. There are in the Loseley MSS. several leases in Frith's name, for Frith, who was a 'scholemaster' (Loseley MS. 401), held several tenements in Blackfriars, notably two tennis courts on the north and west sides of Mr. Blackwell's house (Loseley MS. 332 (59) or 1396, f. 9^v). The lease which probably relates to the house alluded to here is the one dated April, 1555 (Loseley MS. 332 (39)), renewed on the 24th of December, 1559 (Loseley MS. 332 (59) or 1396, f. 9^r), and ended at Lady Day, 1589. It enumerates 'as well on macion howse w^t thapptefnys wherin the sayd Rycharde nowe dwellithe . . . as also all solers sellers vawtyngs and all suche entries as do at this presente time syve for the owtgoynge and in Comynge vnto the sayd mansion howse and all other Cōmoditis and ease-ments'. The rent fixed was eight pounds, which sum points to a very important tenement (Sir Henry Neville paid only six pounds). It is certain that one of the rooms included in that lease must have been somewhere over the entry to the 'frater' or 'hall place' over the buttery, for in an indenture made the 20th of March, 1564-5, between Richard Frith and John Austen, it is said that the said Frith has demised 'all that one chamber or loft wth a chymney therin being nexte vnder the rofe where the highe gallerye of William More esquier appteninge to his howse wthin the laite blacke fryers afforesaid some tyme S^r Thomas Cawarden knight did stand w^{ch} said loft or storye is the vppermoste and highest storye of the tenement or mesuage nowe in the tenure and occupacyon of Thomas hall Musicoñ the w^{ch} sade chamber or storye amongst other the said Richard frythe haith . . . by one indenture of lease . . . beringe Date the xxiiijth Day of December in the Secounde yeare of . . . [Elizabeth]' (Loseley MS. 348. A copy in 1396, f. 18^r). Frith had also a tennis play in the kitchen yard, for in a memorandum dated 'vj die Ap'lis 1562' we hear of 'a Lease gūnted to fryth for vij yeres from o^r lady day last yelding xx^s p aⁿ at iiij termes vsyall viz. the wawe or seller lying next the tennys play for w^{ch} he hath gūnted lycence to alter the pale so as ther may be a convenyent way between his pale & M^r Nevells newe steyres into the house of my M^r wherein Iohn horley doth lodge' (Loseley MS. 406). There exists also another document, dated Dec. 1, 1561, according to which Frith permitted Sir William More to use a 'conduite hedde or howse whereat the tēfity of the sayde wyllm More . . . doo fette and drawe watere and owt of w^{ch} one Smale pype or quyll of Ledde dothe yssue and rñne for the sjuice of Baynards castell', which conduit, it appears, was 'sette vppō percell of the p'mysse comprysede' in the 1559 indenture, 'that ys to saye in and vpon one waye or entrey ledynge owte of water Lane . . . towards and into the mancyon howse of hawle and wherein I [Frith] doo keepe my dawnsynge Scole' (Loseley MS. 1396, f. 19). This fountain head had a void ground annexed to it 'beynge but a conuentyente place for people to stand in and to drawe and to take watere' 'seuerede, deuyded, and inclosede from the entree or waye aforsayde that ys to saye on the Lefte syde of the sayde waye or entrey ledynge vnto the howse & scole aforsayde'.

22. garden. There was a door closing this garden, for in an account of one of More's servants (Loseley MS. 405 A) we hear of 'a payre of hengys for the garden dore next to M^r nevells' bought on Nov. 1, 1560, and of 'a paire of longe crosse garnettys for the newe garden dore' (Dec. 3), 'Item for one other keye to the newe garden dores so in all iiij keyes wherof one w^t you^r woman one w^t you^r self one w^t M^r Nevell & one w^t M^r Creswell' (Dec. 16).

P. 21, 14. lyggens lodginge, &c. There exists a document (dated Feb. 15, 1564-5) relating to Lygon's lodging which runs as follows: 'Omnibus &c. Sciatis me p'fatum Wiſſum More . . . tradidisſe libasſe feoffasſe concessiſſe . . . In one of the documents relating to the Jerningham-More lawsuit we find mention of a 'howes & logeyng cawlyd of Aunsyent tyeeme by the name of the Lade pars logyng . . . now in the Tenuer of Mr Lygeys' (Loseley MS., Bundle 424). In another undated document (same bundle) the house 'callyd The lade ps logyng wth A pler thear vnder' is said to be in the tenure of 'Sr Thm^s Saunders'.

P. 24, 4. high Gallary, &c. In the 'Accompt of Thoms Totnall the vij of february 1564 for ðne quart^r of a yere fully ended at Xp̄as Last' are included the 'Charḡs for pulling downe the high gallary' (Loseley MS. 406).

P. 25, 10-11. a certeyne sprynge or water, &c. Cf. note to 20, 11. There is also among the Loseley Papers (No. 1396, f. 33^v-34^r, or, with Pembroke's signature, No. 332 (48)) an indenture dated Sept. 1, 1561, between the Earl of Pembroke and William More, according to which More allowed the Earl of Pembroke to convey the water through several cisterns to Baynard's Castle. In return Pembroke agreed to set a pipe of lead with a convenient cock of brass in Sir Henry Neville's house. Other letters relating to this quill of water are to be found in a Portfolio (unnumbered) containing letters from different noblemen to More.

P. 27, 3. Sylk dyers. Loseley MS. 406, has the following entries:

'the Sylke dyers for y^e house late Sr henry Nevell Knight ———iijⁱⁱ vjs viij^d

From a document in Loseley MS. 425, it appears that Sir William More bought the lease from Sir Henry Neville for £100.

P. 28. Document IX. The counterpart of this lease, with Farrant's signature and seal, is in Bundle No. 348. It is endorsed 'Rychard fferant' in More's hand, and (in another hand) 'expired'.

P. 29, 19-20. fiftye and syxe foote. An error for forty-six feet (cf. No. VIII).

P. 35, 35. received v^d. In 1549-50 (March 1) Sir Thomas Cheyney obtained a decree, made by the Court of Augmentations, allowing him £5 a year for his rent. (See Feuillerat, Office of the Revels. Elizabeth, note to p. 6, l. 35.)

P. 37, 24. acquittance. This document is in Bundle No. 1326. A copy is in 1396, f. 101^v-102^v.

P. 38, 9. Willm Ioyner. In 1563-4 'Ioyner Mr of fience' was assessed on £7 (Lay Subsidies, 145). In 1576 he was still living in Blackfriars (Ib., 145).

13. dede of conveyance. A copy of this document is in 1396, f. 102^r.

16. Thoms Hale. In 1563-4 Thomas Hall was assessed on £3 (lands in Blackfriars) (Lay Subsidies, 145).

35. Xöfer fenton Thoms Austen and John Lewes. These were evidently the houses to which William More pretended title in opposition to Henry Poole's claim. (Cf. head-note to No. X.) One of them must have been the house called Mr. Portinary's house in the old surveys.

In Lay Subsidies, 145 (for 1576), Christopher Fenton of St. Anne's in the Blackfriars is said to be 'Mr Creswells s3unt'. For his house see Nos. XV and XVII.

P. 39, 12. lease, &c. A copy of this lease is in Loseley MS. 1396, f. 102^v-103^r. It contains no description of the houses.

P. 46, 35 sqq. Another document, apparently a rough draft, reproducing these interrogatories from 'Margaret Harbottell &c.', down to page 53, 'thincketh yt was so', is in Loseley MS. 438.

P. 48, 9. their howses. After the word 'howses' No. 438 has 'vz. the newe howse'.

P. 51, 11. woodman. All I have been able to find regarding this Woodman is the following document: 'A vewe [] firste of Ap[] soche hurt and [] as was done by woodman to the h[] of him taken of Sr Thomas Carden knight vewed by Io[] howlte Richard lee Steuen parratt patryck Kelleye /

(Loseley MS. 402.) [See also summary of the Blgrave survey, as given by Sir Walter Besant.—E. K. C.]

P. 53, 36. Another document in Bundle No. 438 gives the 'sayings' of other witnesses, who may have been the witnesses on Poole's side. One 'Kerners wyf' remembered that she dwelt with one Parpoynte, a wine seller, in Bywater's house, 'at suche tyme as Anne Askewe was burnt', but she never knew Lylgrave, Fereby, nor Fylole.

Another vintner, Woolverston, 'sumtyme fryere of the blackfryers', and two other friars said that Fereby lived in Bywater's house, and that Lylgrave dwelt in Joyner's fencing-school, but he added that Fereby never dwelt 'where Lylgrauē dwelt nor Lylgrauē where fereby dwelt nor that S^r Thomās Cheynye had eū anye of eythere of the sayd howses'.

Bywater's wife said that Fereby occupied Bywater's and Joyner's houses together, but, according to her, neither Lylgrave nor Sir Thomas Cheyney 'dyd eū occupye the sayd howses or anye of theym neythere that fferebye dyd eū occupye that howse that S^r Thomas Cheynye hathe newe bult or that where S^r portynarye afterwardys dwelt'.

Lastly one 'fflore' said that 'ppoynte dyd kepe a tauerne where Ioyū keps his scole and had also Bywaters howse', before the dissolution. He asserted also that Sir Thomās Cheyney inherited the house (which was strongly denied by More). 'Also he saythe that fereby had the sayd howse and Lylgrauē also but he saythe that fereby neū had Portynaryes house nor the newe howse nor that S^r Thomas Cheynye eū had bywaters or Ioyū's howse in his occupacōn'.

P. 55. Document XII. The counterpart, with Bonetti's signature and seal, is in Bundle No. 348.

22. Rochō Bonetti. Bonetti was an Italian fencing-master who came to London c. 1569. He took first a house in Warwick Lane and then moved to the Blackfriars, where he bought John Lyly's lease, and also obtained from Mrs. Poole a grant of her own estate. It appears that he incurred extravagant expenses in building certain houses upon William More's ground without his landlord's consent, and that when he had thus run into debt, More threatened to evict him. A correspondence, extending from July, 1584, to Jan. 1585-6, signed by Peregrine Wylloughby, John Northe, Walter Raleigh, who interposed in his favour, and Robert Sothebie, Robert Forthe, Thomas Aldersey, William Salter, who acted as arbitrators, is preserved among the Loseley MSS. (Letters, 1581-1600, and Letters Undated). No. 419 is also a petition from certain workmen to whom Rocco was indebted for work done in 'the new howse lately buylded by Senio^r Rocke vpon yo^r worships grounde at Blackfriars'. The lease here printed was the outcome of this affair. It was granted for ten years only, in spite of the urgent appeal of the above-named in favour of a longer term. An interesting description of Bonetti's fencing school is given by George Silver in his Paradoxes of Defence (1599). See also Dasent, Acts of the Privy Council, N.S. viii. 395, ix. 41, x. 333, xi. 183.

P. 56, 5-11. A hawle, &c. Compare the rooms enumerated in this document with those enumerated in Bywater's lease.

12-18. All wth Chambers, &c. Compare these measurements with those of the kitchen and chamber in the Survey (7, 28 sqq.).

22. John Lyllie. After Richard Farrant's death, in 1580, Anne Farrant sold the lease to William Hunnis and to John Newman. Then the theatre passed into the hands of Henry Evans, who in his turn sold the lease to the Earl of Oxford, who gave his interest to Lyly. (For an account of the different managements of the theatre, and of the disputes which ensued, see my article in the Shakespeare-Jahrbuch for 1912; for the lawsuit between Ann Farrant and Newman and Hunnis, the documents among the Court of Request Proceedings, published by Dr. Wallace in his Evolution of the English Drama, pp. 160-8, are to be consulted.) I have found no trace of the lease sold by Lyly to Bonetti. All that we know is that in 1584 Lord Oxford and Lyly paid respectively £20 and £8 for their annual rents, and that in 1585 the same sums are entered in the name of Lord Hunsdon (Rentals for 1584 and 1585). These are probably the two leases to which William More referred in a letter he wrote to Lord Hunsdon [in 1586, April 8] when he said: 'The howses yow had of Lyllye I determyne that assone as theye bothe shall cum into my handy to kepe theym to the onelye vse of me and mye chylderne' (Draft of the letter in Loseley MSS., Undated Letters). See also in Lord Hunsdon's answer to this letter: 'So as I may enioye wthall the other towne howses, w^{ch} I haue payd derly for according to their severall leases wth such comodities as is allowed in one of the said leases, w^{ch} ys to haue a Pype of watter w^{ch} was wonte to belonge to one of those howses w^{ch} ys nowe by yo^r consent turned to my Lorde Cobhams howse w^{ch} is contrarie to yo^r owne lease . . . And for the leases w^{ch} I bought of Lyllye, sens yo^w meane to make no longer state of them, I must be content wth those yerres I haue alreddie paid for, And as yo^u will looke to haue yo^r rent for the same so I must looke to haue such covenanty pformed as are graunted by yo^u in the said leases, whereof the specialest thing ys the Pype of water, w^{ch} I am shewer yo^u not thinke reason to receave so greate a rent and to take awaye the water w^{ch} is the cheefest thing belonging vnto yt' (Loseley MSS., Letters, &c., vol. 8, f. 58). This mention of the 'pipe of water' identifies one of the houses with the north section of Farrant's theatre, for that was the only one of More's houses (his own mansion-house excepted) which was supplied with water. This is corroborated by another letter (Oct. 11, 1591), in which one William Skynner recommended to More a namesake of his, who wished to obtain a piece of the tenements in Lord Hunsdon's tenure, i.e. 'two small romes wth a celler & a litle backsyde' which rooms seem to be those described in Farrant's lease (cf. 30, 36 sqq.). It is certain also that Hunsdon had that part of the 'frater' which was sold to Burbadge, since in 1595 (Jan. 9) he wrote: 'And understanding that yo^u have all redie parted wth part of yo^r howse to somme that meanes to make a playe howse in yt: and also hearing that yo^u meane to lett or sell yo^r other howse, w^{ch} once I had also; Theis are hartelie to pray and desyre yo^u, that I may have yt at yo^r hand' (Letters, &c., vol. 8, f. 61). Another letter, dated April 14, 1590, relates to the same houses: 'Whereas one of the leases of yo^r howses w^{ch} I have in the black ffriers is all reddie expired, and y^e other will be likewise voyde betweene this and our Ladie day next: I am heereby to intreate yo^u to doe me y^e favour vpon surrender of y^e ould Lease to grante me a newe of them both ioynctlie together, w^{ch} favour yf yo^u please to doe me, yo^u shall find me a verie good tenant and frend to yo^u otherwise wherein I maye: And whereas yo^r other tenaunte having y^e vse of y^e Lead^s, either by negligence or otherwise, suffereth y^e boyes to cutt vpp y^e Lead wth knifes or to boore yt through wth bodkyns, wherby notwthstanding y^e cost I have all reddie bistowed, and that I mynd to doe, y^e rayne cometh throwghe, and y^e howse therby much annoyed, yf yo^u please to lett me have y^e vse of them to my selfe, I willbe bounde to y^e reparacōns therof, and think my selfe beholding vnto yo^u' (Letters, &c., vol. 8, f. 59). More made a first draft of a letter agreeing to renew the leases (April 17), but the next day he changed his mind and wrote that he had promised the houses to his daughter Wooley, and so could not part with them (Letters, vol. 8, f. 59^v and f. 60). Lord Hunsdon had also a third house—a large house and garden—for which he paid £50 yearly (Rentals for 1584 and 1585). This must have been More's own mansion-house (cf. Letters, &c., vol. 8, f. 58).

25. the house of Sr George Carewe. It is not known how Sir George Carew came to live in Blackfriars. He must have bought property from Jerningham, or rather from Kempe. What is certain is that in 1576 Anthony Kempe was assessed in lands in Blackfriars on xli^{li} (Lay Subsidies, 24⁴/₈), and that in 1584-5 Sir George Carew was assessed on the same sum of xli^{li} (Lay Subsidies, 24⁴/₈). The lands in Blackfriars belonging to Sir Henry Jerningham must have been sold even before his death. For, from a letter dated August 24, 1566, written by one W. Winchester to 'mkes flynckley Ioyner dwelling bysydes Charing Crosse', we know that Kempe, elsewhere given as 'buyer' of Jerningham's title, was at that time making alterations in his house. The following extract is interesting: 'Vnderstanding that yo^u haue taken in hand certen worke of M^r Kemps in his house at the black fryars herin London: and that yo^u ar about to pull downe a pillar of stone wherupon s^r henry Nevell Knight and Wifflm More esquy^r theire howses dependeth / and that as I am credably informed by the vyewers of the Cyttye yo^u cannot w^out grete pell to ther said houses pcede therin any further &c.' (Letters to 1580). From a petition of the inhabitants of Blackfriars to Sir Nicholas Bacon and to Sir William Cecil, Knight of the Garter, Lord Burghley, Lord Treasurer of England—therefore written between 1572 and 1579—we know also that one Henry Naylor 'procuredd an interest vnto a voyde place' 'being, at the tyme of the dissolucon of the sayd fireers . . . used by theym as a Cloyster, comenly called the Inner Cloyster' and turned it into bowling alleys to the great annoyance of his neighbours (Draft of the petition in Loseley MS. 414; other draft in No. 413). [Cf. Dasent, xiii. 76.—E. K. C.]

P. 70, 27. John Tyce. The situation of Tyce's tenement is shown by the following extract from an indenture, made the 5th of June, 1603, between Sir George More and John Strompro alias Tice, witnessing that Sir George More has sold to the said Tice 'all that litle pece or pcell of lande, as it is nowe bounded & sett out, lyinge . . . wthin the p^cincte of the saide late Blackfryers adioyning to the high way ledinge from Ludgate to the water of Thames on the west pte and the Messuage or Tenem^t now in the occupacon of the saide Iohn on the South pte & the waye or voide grounde ledinge from the saide high way into the glassehowse there on the north and Est ptes and extendeth it self in lengeth, from the saide high way estward^y Sixe and Thirtie foote of Assice & in bredeth at the est end Twelve foote of Assice and in bredeth at the west end nyne foote of Assice together wth the Reulcōn of the saide pcell of land above bounden & wth ffree and quiett ingresse, egresse & regresse to & from the saide pcell of land above bounden in by oū & vppon the saide way or voide grounde ledinge into the saide glasse howse at all conveynient tymes . . . one lease of the saide pcell of land amongst other made & graunted from the saide S^r George More to S^r Ierom Bowes Knight for certen yeres yett induringe alwaies excepted & foreprised . . .' (Loseley MS. 332 (60)). For the lease to Bowes cf. 98, 20-8. Another document (Loseley MS. 349), dated June 3, 1603, is a consent to the sale signed by Sir Jerome Bowes. It describes the parcel of ground in exactly the same terms as the deed of sale.

P. 76, 29. Sir Richard Michelborne. In 1584-5 (Feb. 16), Margaret Poole, for the sum of £105, sold to Sir R. Michelborne all the messuages and tenements in the tenure of Christopher Fenton, with this condition, that if this sum was paid back to Michelborne on the 19th of June, 1585, the indenture of sale should be void (Rec. Off. Close Roll 1215).

P. 84, 31. Thirde pte. A deed, dated June 19, 1613, though not bearing upon this property, shows how Charles Poole, grandson to Henry Poole, had a third part of his grandfather's lands. It is probably from Charles Poole that Maunsell had his title to the third part of Fenton's tenement (see Rec. Off. Close Roll 2182).

P. 98, 1 sqq. greale howse, &c. All the messuages and rooms enumerated from 98, 1 to 94, 4 were leased to Ralph Bowes in 1596 (March 3). Cf. 98, 18. This lease, which practically agrees with the deed of sale here printed, is Loseley MS. 332 (356). In 1611 (July) the property was divided between the three owners in the following manner: 1. Richard Brooke had the staircase leading to the church, with the entry at the top; the great kitchen adjoining the church, with a cellar underneath; the great hall adjoining the kitchen; the parlour next the hall; a little room adjoining the parlour, and part of a great chamber in the occupation of John Bushroom which lay on the east of a staircase leading to William Robson's rooms; so much of the long gallery as lay directly over the little room and part of the great chamber (about 43 feet in length) and so much of the great yard as contained 45 feet to be measured from a mark in the wall on the East side of the door of the staircase leading to William Robson's rooms (Close Roll 2091);—2. John Freeman had four rooms in the occupation of John Bushroom, lying in part over the glass house; the rest of the great chamber; so much of the great gallery as lay over the great chamber and four rooms; so much of the glass house as lay under the four rooms; two rooms in the tenure of William Robson on the east side of the glasshouse; all the cellars underneath, and so much of the great yard or garden as lay before the four rooms and extended to the wall of the churchyard (Close Roll 2091);—3. William Banister had all the rest, next adjoining the theatre, that is to say: 'All that the gatehouse with thapptefncy [i. e. the Pipe Office] on the west side of the side of the sayd monastery . . . And all that part and soe much of the houses roomes or buildings adioynng to the sayd gatehouse on the east side thereof as doth extend or reach from the stone wall of the sayd gatehouse eastward vnto a nayle there (fixed in the stone wall beyond the stayers there leading downe into the great vault or roome vsed and ymployed for a glasse house with a floure deluce on the head thereof and conteyneth in length eastward from the sayd stone wall of the sayd gatehouse vnto the sayd nayle with a floure deluce twenty and three foote and tenne ynches or nigh thereabout litle more or lesse. And all and every and soe much of the valty cellerage ground and soyle as lyeth directly vnder the same parte of the sayd roomes or buildings and soe much of the long gallery as lyeth over the same parte of the sayd roomes And alsoe all that and soe much of the great yard or garden there as extendeth yt selfe from the sayd stone wall on the east side of the sayd gatehouse vnto the sayd nayle with the flowerdeluce on the head and conteyneth in breadth from the east side of the sayd stone wall of the sayd gatehouse vnto the sayd nayle twenty and three foote and tenne ynches of assize or nigh thereabout And soe from the sayd nayle rangeth directly over vnto the house there wherein Iohn Warton nowe dwelleth and the stone wall adioynng to the Churchyard there on the south together with fre . . . ingres . . . through the gate standing vnder the messuage or house wherein Stephen Egerton Preacher nowe dwelleth' (Close Roll 2091). Banister's part was sold in 1616 (July 11) by his son Thomas to Gedeon Delaunay (Close Roll 2305), who, the next year (March 16, 1617) sold it to Jacob Hardrett (Close Roll 2376). Lastly, in 1619 (Nov. 2), Gedeon Delawne bought from Jacob Hardrett a 'new erected mesuage' 'built vpon part of such old housing & roomes as heretofore the said Gedeon Delaune did sell vnto the said Iacob Hardrett' in 1617. This tenement is said to be 'adioynng to twoe other new erected teftis of the said Iacob hardrett towardy the west one of them in the occupacōn of henry martyn Esquier & the other in the occupacōn of master mason minister & towardy the east vpon the mesuage or teft now in the occupacōn of mistris Basill widdow & conteyneth on the ground in breadth from east to west that is to say from the great gate neare the playhouse vnto the said mesuage or teft in the occupacōn of the said widdow Basill twenty & foure foote of assize or thereaboutys & in length from north to south on the east side thereof forty & three foote of assize or thereaboutys . . . & also all that litle plott of ground as the same is now enclosed lying directly before the north part of the said hereby bargained messuage or tefit & abutteth vpon the garden wall of the said Gedeon Delaune towards the north & is enclosed with a stronge pale towards the east & south party thereof & conteyneth in length on the west side of the same plott of ground from the south side of the foresaid brickwall at the end of the said garden of the said Gedeon Delaune vnto the great gate there leading from the Playhouse there towards the Church of Blackfriars thirty & one foote of assize or thereaboutys & on the east side thereof from the foresaid south side of the said brickwall towards the South nyneteene foote of assize or thereaboutys together with the void ground & soile thereof lying betweene the said plott of ground & the said messuage or tefit hereby bargained' (Close Roll 2416).

12. the pish Church. 'In Queene Maries tyme, Sr Thoms Cawarden, beinge in disgrace wth her Mat^e, and then not likt of the Lordy of the Counsell, . . . seinge howe hardlie he was vsed in respecte of his Religion, he made a Chappell in a pt of his dwelling howse' (Loseley MS. 425). According to the same document, William More, when he had bought Cawarden's estate, suffered the said chapel to be used for divine service. There are among the Loseley MSS. several documents which help in locating this church. They are, besides those given here, passim, Nos. 349, 332 (59) or 1396, f. 9^v. See also Rec. Off. Close Rolls, Nos. 2150, 2953.

31. Thomas Jones. The situation of this tenement is given in an indenture dated March 6, 1572-3, between William More and Thomas Jones, witnessing that More has demised 'that rome . . . wth the lofte next ouⁿ the same of late newly made . . . sett standinge . . . wthin the garden of the saide Wifm More that is to saye on the Este syde of the same garden . . . together wth a conveniente place wthin the vate next vnto the same Rome . . . towards the Est to Laye woode . . . that is to saye in bredethe from the Rome . . . aboue Demised vnto a pillar of stone sett and standinge next vnto the saide Rome or lodginge wthin the saide vate towards the Este And in lengthe from the saide Pillor of stone standinge next vnto the saide Rome or lodginge directly vnto the stone wall of the vate towards the Southe . . . and also all the weynescott . . . glasse wyndowes . . . sett and standynge wthin the saide Rome' (Loseley MS. 348. Also 1396, f. 76^r).
